Senator Teller's Open Letter Regarding His Attitude.

ARAPAHOE COUNTY CONVENTION

Characteristic Denver View of the Situation—Montana State Convention Elected Uninstructed Delegates to St. Louis.

Washington, May 11.—Senator Teller of Colorado to-day sent the following letter to the chairman of the Colorado State [illegible]:

"Hon. Irving Howbert, Colorado Springs, Colo.: I wish to say to the State convention through you that I do not desire to go to the national convention and cannot go unless the State convention is in accord with my views in declaring that in the coming campaign the silver question is the paramount issue. The State convention should act with the full knowledge that I do not intend to support a candidate on a gold standard platform, or on a platform of doubtful construction. If this course puts me out of sympathy with the Republican sentiment of the State as a portion of the Republican press alleges it will, I accept that result with all its logical consequences in preference to an abandonment of principles and stultification of my record made, as I conceive, under the instructions of every Republican convention held in Colorado during the last 12 years.

"H. M. TELLER."

ARAPAHOE COUNTY CONVENTION.

A Denver View of the Present Republican Situation.

Denver, May 11.—The Republican county convention called to meet at 10 o'clock today to select delegates to the State and Congressional conventions, for the purpose of selecting delegates to the national convention in St. Louis, failed to become even temporarily organized at the hour to-night. This delay was due to a factional contest for control and the staunch determination of Mrs. W. H. Kistler, the county chairman, to stick to her rulings in spite of the howling of hard hedlers and bull-dozing tactics of some of the delegates to gain their points. It has been developed that Senator Teller will be sent to St. Louis at the head of a delegation composed of loyal followers of his opinions and that Senator Wolcott will not be of that delegation. His friends now ask only that a vote of censure be not passed. This action is almost unanimous demand of the members of the party and will be taken to prevent the defeat of the local tickets both county and State next fall.

The contest to-day is waged for local control in both county and State organizations and is extremely bitter. The lady who is chairman of the county committee ruled against a party rule relating to the making up of a temporary roll of delegates as prepared by the county central committee, both in the meetings of the committee and in the opening of the county convention, her position being that the rule in question is wrong and unjust and should not stand, though a large majority of the county committee voted against her. An appeal from her decision in the committee was carried this evening and the contest over a similar point in the preliminary work of the county convention continued until a late hour to-night.

The roll call of uncontested delegates finally resulted in sustaining the appeal from the decision of Mrs. Kistler, chairman, and the delegates proceeded to effect the temporary organization by placing J. H. Shattuck in the chair without opposition. Committees were named and a recess taken until 10 o'clock to-night.

The gang wins and Mayor McMurray's following, known as the anti-combine, is defeated.

At 1 a. m. the committee on credentials had just come in with a minority and majority report, and debate is now on. The convention will continue throughout the night.

MONTANA REPUBLICANS.

Gold Line Republicans Defeated A. P. A. Influence.

Helena, Mont., May 11.—The Republican state convention, called to select delegates to the national convention, was held here to-day. The only contest was between the gold line Republicans and the P. A.s, the latter making a fight against the indorsement of Senators Mantle, Carter, and Congressman Hartman, and of their views on the Indian and Australian bill. The test vote came on a motion to seat a contesting anti-A. P. delegation from Granite county, and the A. P. A.s were defeated by a vote of 103 to 104, showing a majority of 33 against the secret political organization. Resolutions were then adopted commending in unqualified terms the action of Senators Teller, Dubois, Cannon, Mantle and Carter, on the silver question, and demanding the restoration of silver to its ancient money function as a means of equalizing the difference in wages and cost of living.

"Bimetallism, protection and reciprocity are the three cardinal principles of the Republican faith, and a declaration was made for the free and unlimited coinage of both gold and silver at a ratio of 16 to 1 independently by the United States. The Democratic administration was denounced for its efforts to force upon the country the [illegible] of Chicago, free trade and the gold standard, and for ignoring the nation's flag in Hawaii, failing to recognize Cuba and increasing the national debt.

"An effort was made to instruct the national delegates to walk out of the St. Louis convention in case free silver was not recognized, but the effort failed. Mr. Teller's name was very coldly received, and the delegates will go to St. Louis unfettered.

FORECAST BY CHICAGO

Maintaining the Exact Situation on the Currency Question.

Chicago, May 11.—James H. Eckels, comptroller of the currency, arrived in the city to-day from Washington, as the personal representative of the President on a tour of information seeking, and as a peacemaker between the fighting factions of Illinois and Cook county Democracy in the interests of a gold standard. On his arrival and the secret conferences he held during the day with the "sound money" leaders formed the sole topic of conversation in Democratic political circles, local and State headquarters.

The comptroller is generally credited with the mission of ascertaining the exact situation in certain Western States on the currency question with the special object of doing all in his power to have the anti-free silver delegation sent by the Illinois convention to Chicago in July, as a result of the day's conference, which he continued to-morrow, it is said to find money Democrats of this city disposed to attacking or even opposing Altgeld for renomination and confining their campaign exclusively to preventing Illinois being put in the silver column at the national convention.

The danger of the party in this State being permanently split on the money question, with two State conventions, a contest and a possible bolt at the national convention is also [illegible] a strong cause for an aggressive policy on the part of the administration people, including the Illinois office holders. The visit of the comptroller, it is reported, was hastened by telegrams sent to Washington after the sound money leaders had conferred with Chairman Harrity of the national committee last week on the complex party politics here. The Altgeld and silver Democrats are arranging for a big demonstration at the Auditorium next Saturday, the Governor being the chief attraction.

ALLISON WILL NOT WITHDRAW.

Iowa's Delegates Will Support Him from Start to Finish.

Cleveland, May 11.—Allison will not withdraw from the Presidential race, said ex-Senator Harlan, who was a delegate from Iowa to the Methodist conference to-night. "The people [illegible] Allison and they like him and have confidence in him. The vote from the State will be cast for him from start to finish. Allison has not a particular desire to go into the fight in the first place, but now that he started, he wants to win if he can. At the same time, there is no hostility toward McKinley. He will be a welcome enough candidate so far as the Republicans of Iowa are concerned.

"McKinley's friends think they have the fight won. Well, it looks that way to me too. There's many a slip between the cup and the lip, but in McKinley's case they're pretty close together now."

A P. A. COUNCIL.

Delegates Nearly All in Washington Ready for Business.

Washington, May 11.—The delegates to the meeting of the council of the American Protective association are nearly all in the city. The meeting will be called to order behind closed doors at 10 o'clock to-morrow morning. The first day's session will be devoted to organization and routine work. It is expected to be a session five of six days, and nearly the last work will be the election of officers. There will be a stubborn fight over the report of the advisory council against McKinley.

Two committees held meetings to-day. There were the judiciary and executive committees. The judiciary committee, composed of lawyers, and Judge Stevenson, chairman of Ex. John W. Robertson of Georgia and H. W. Swain of California, were appointed members of this committee this morning by President Traynor. The executive committee meeting was for the purpose of looking into the report of the treasurer and other officers.

FIFTY-FOURTH CONGRESS.

Yesterday's Proceedings in the Senate and House.

Washington, May 11.—The Senate had another copious dose of San Pedro and Santa Monica to-day. Three of the members of the Committee on Commerce, opposed the amendment offered by the chairman of the committee, Mr. Frye, designating Santa Monica as the place for a deep sea harbor in California.

Senators Berry of Arkansas, Vest of Missouri, and Caffrey of Louisiana, submitted remarks against the amendment, which Mr. Berry described as a most indefensible and inexcusable attempt to overrule public sentiment and to appropriate money in the interest of private greed and private gain. Mr. Vest argued against making an appropriation for a breakwater, either at the one place or the other; as in his judgment, there was no necessity for the expenditure, and as the condition of the treasury was such that an issue of bonds would be necessary in a few months, Mr. Caffrey based his argument against Santa Monica on the reports of the two boards of army engineers, and was reminded in that connection of the success of "Hads" scheme for deepening the approach to New Orleans in spite of adverse views of army engineers.

Then the chairman of the committee, Mr. Frye of Maine, commenced the task of answering all the objections to the committee amendment, and in doing so, eulogized Mr. Collis P. Huntington, who had been mentioned as a political factor in California, where a man's chances for nomination for office depended upon the fact of whether he was for or against Huntington. Mr. Frye's speech was not finished when the bill was laid aside till to-morrow, but at that time Mr. Gorman (Dem.) of Maryland gave notice of an amendment limiting the annual expenditure under the pending and former river and harbor bills to $10,000,000.

At 5:35 p. m. the Senate adjourned until to-morrow.

HOUSE.

Washington, May 11.—Miscellaneous business was the order in the House today. The following bills were passed:

Extending for two years the period within which the Denison and Northern Railroad company may build its line through Indian Territory; authorizing the Denver, Cripple Creek and Southwestern Railroad company to construct its line through the South Platte and Plum Creek forest reservation in Colorado; granting right of way over public lands in Colorado and Wyoming, except Yellowstone park, for oil pipe lines; authorizing the Flagstaff and Canon Railroad company to build its line through Grand Canon forest reservation, Arizona, and authorizing the Secretary of the Treasury to issue and enforce regulations for the safety of passenger excursions at any results or yacht race on the navigable waters of the United States.

A preliminary conference report upon the Indian appropriation bill was agreed to and another conference ordered on the items still in dispute.

The resolutions of Elections Committee No. 1, declaring John W. Maddox (Dem.) to be entitled to the seat occupied by him as representative from the Seventh district of Georgia, contested by W. H. Felton (Populist), was presented and being the unanimous report of the committee was agreed to.

The rest of the day was devoted to the consideration of the District of Columbia business.

At 5:35 the House adjourned until tomorrow.

DEATH OF H. C. BUNNER.

Editor of Puck for Nineteen Years, Succumbed to Consumption.

New York, May 11.—Henry Cuyler Bunner, editor of Puck, died at his home in Nutley, N. J., this afternoon, of consumption. After Mr. Bunner's return from California, where he went in search of health, he failed steadily.

Mr. Bunner has been editor of Puck since 1877, having succeeded the first editor of that paper, within a few months of the time the paper was started. He was born in Oswego in 1855.

About ten years ago Mr. Bunner married Miss Learned, of New Haven, a sister of Walter Learned, a well-known writer. They have three children, two girls and a boy.

Sir Dewett Resigned.

Cape Town, May 11.—Sir Jacob Dewett, British diplomatic agent to the Transvaal, has resigned. The action of Sir Jacob during the troubles in the Transvaal has been severely criticised from all of the papers here charging that he was working more in the interests of the Boers than of the English.

SPEECH OF THE QUEEN REGENT.

Address to the New Cortes on the Cuban Situation.

THE INSURRECTION DECREASING.

According to the Opinion of the Superior Authority of the Island—Correct and Friendly Conduct of the United States.

Madrid, May 11.—The new Cortes met to-day. Great interest was manifested in the speech from the throne, opening the session, which it was known would deal at length with the situation in Cuba. The speech was read in person by the Queen Regent, representing the youthful Kings Her Majesty said:

"Senators and Deputies: Heavy preoccupations lay on my mind of addressing you on this day of the opening of the session of the Cortes. All of you have with me those preoccupations as I am sure they are shared by the nation.

"You cannot have forgotten those days, rich in hopes, of February and March of last year, when the legislative bodies assembled in the island of Cuba and Porto Rico.

"To this enforcement, the representatives of the royal parties of Cuba and Porto Rico pledged themselves and those who share the power in the peninsula, but those good intentions were counteracted on the 21st of February, when the insurrection had not yet begun in the Spanish, by the discovery by the governor general of Cuba of symptoms of rebellion and three days later it was necessary to proclaim martial law. It was most plain that the announcement of reforms, appealed unpopularly by the Liberal parties far from restraining the secessionists, gave them impulse to resort to arms with the clear intention of preventing the application of liberal reforms.

"From the first moment that was understood by the illustrious general to whom the pacification of the territory was intrusted, the same declaration was made to his government by the commercial agent of the United States, which said that the revolutionists, seeing in the reforms great advantage to their country, quickened the movement in order to prevent their aspiration of creating an independent state becoming imparled.

"The rebel chiefs, principally the foreigners and the colored, did not wait long to say that they did not attach importance to political, economical or administrative reforms, no matter how liberal, even the most extended form of local home rule, if they had to submit to the sovereignty of Spain and the good and the prosperity of the Cubans was nothing to them. On the contrary, that class of revolutionists showed themselves the encouragers of the groups of bandits that formed the nucleus of their forces, destroying private property, burning towns without pitying and making public that they will destroy the island if they are unable to conquer the public power and that they will thereafter dispute with arms in hand eternally.

"What the consequence would be of the substitution of the sovereignty of Spain over racial nearly balanced and with irreconcilable character, there is no statesman who will not foresee. The final result would be that Cuba would make a step backwards in civilization.

Mission of Civilization.

"The Spanish nation in the meantime is not going to be indifferent to the future of those of her sons, misguided by improvident political ambitions, and she will not abandon the mission of civilization that she has imposed upon her, if and that she has to this moment accomplished, and her history and honor impose upon her; and much less will she deny the rights and advantages demanded with reason to those inhabitants of the Antilles, who forming in the different political parties, have indignantly condemned the insurrection from the first moment, being morally and materially by the side of the metropolis and have shed their blood for her.

"There are also many who only by fear have joined the rebels and who are beginning to profit by the facilities afforded them by the state of demoralization of the insurrection to come under the nation's flag and there will not be before long many who convinced of the absolute impotence of their efforts to suppress the sovereignty of Spain, but who will return with a peaceful spirit to their homes to become good citizens.

"The government has not abandoned, nor will she abandon, the general study of future legislation for the Antilles for the moment that after a new intervention by the Cortes and when the opportunity will arrive they would have to be definitely established. Fortunately the insurrection is decreasing in the opinion of the superior authority of the island and of the persons who can, in Cuba, judge with greater certitude.

"If it has not yet decreased completely it is due principally as nobody can ignore, to the great and frequent helps received from false descriptions of the political and administrative situation in Cuba, making them also believe that the conduct of destroying what they are unable to conquer, is identical to those that with higher ends with different means and with the reasonable probabilities of creating a new civilized nation by methods which have been practiced at other times in America and in Europe.

Chimerical Hopes.

"Even that help would not be sufficient for the chimerical hopes spread among the insurgents that a great nation will take a hand in their illegitimate and powerless cause with manifest violation of the public rights. For that reason, every disappointment that the separatists receive regarding that will serve more efficiently than anything else to reestablishment of the peace.

"And it is to be hoped that they will now suffer disappointment because of the fact better known every day that makes it clear to all honest minds that Spain is far from desiring her Antillian subjects to return to live under an old and antiquated regime when she enjoys such liberal laws. Without the separatist conspiracy Spain would never have refused any legitimate liberty.

"On you, Senors, Senadores and Diputados, devolves now to encourage or restrain the policy signalled by my government or to show him different ways.

"Undoubtedly the interests of the country imperatively demand that the government will be authorized to profit as it will be convenient by the circumstances with the aim of putting an end, in a short time, to the present situation, and with some object projects of law will be presented to you which you will accept, amend or reject according to the dictates of your conscience.

"I have the greatest satisfaction in informing you that we maintain excellent and cordial relations with all the foreign powers.

"The correct and friendly conduct of the American republic in the presence of the Cuban insurrection is a good proof that every day the ties of interest are developed and the friendship that unites them closer with Spain.

"[illegible] great efforts that a part of the public opinion has succeeded in making in a contrary sense, the President and his government have not deprived from the line of conduct that corresponds to the loyal friendship that has existed between the two countries from the [illegible] of the existence of that republic.

"The government will report to the Cortes the treaty of peace and friendship negotiated with the republic of Honduras."

The remainder of the address is devoted to the reports of the different departments and is not of general interest.

BERLIN LETTER.

Treaties to be Asked Prohibiting Traffic in Grain Futures.

Berlin, May 11.—The leaders of the agrarian party in the Reichstag have declared their intention to follow up the blow they dealt against the system of trafficking in grain futures by proposing that judgments obtained in other German courts arising from contracts growing out of time deals in grain shall not be enforced in Germany. As international executions of judgments are estimated by international law [illegible] tion, any mere deliverance of the [illegible] upon this subject must [illegible] remain inoperative. The [illegible] Reichstag in prohibiting [illegible] tures has led a number of grain operators to transfer their grain transactions to Amsterdam and Antwerp. Some dealers say that the prohibition of time deals will not affect business in the least, as they could carry on future deals in Chicago or New York independently of the rules of the Berlin produce exchange, and though such contracts would not be legally binding the dealers say they can [illegible] the good faith of the contracting parties. Several leading firms whose heads are members of the produce exchange are arranging in conjunction with a number of Hamburg houses to establish grain trade banks in Antwerp, Amsterdam and Brussels. To counteract this movement, Count von Kanitz, the agrarian leader, has given notice in the Reichstag of his intention to ask the government to negotiate with foreign powers for the conclusion of treaties prohibiting traffic in grain and produce futures.

The Hanover Courier asserts that the term of office of the imperial chancellor, Prince Hohenlohe, will end with the close of the present session of the Reichstag; but the semi-official press on the contrary declare that a ministerial crisis has been averted and that Prince Hohenlohe will remain in power as long as his health permits.

General Bronsart von Schellendorf, imperial minister of war, has succeeded in obtaining the Emperor's assent to the scheme for the reform of the military tribunals, and also certain reforms in the army organization which have [illegible] opposed by the Emperor's military cabinet. The chancellor and the minister of war will continue their struggle against the influence of General von Hahnke, the chief of the Emperor's military cabinet, and Dr. von Lucanus, chief of the Kaiser's civil cabinet, and if they should be succesful, it ought to lead to a change in the personnel of both the military and civil cabinets.

Another colonial office scandal is exciting political and official circles. Baron von Wissman, governor of German East Africa, who sailed from Zanzibar last Thursday on his way home, does not intend to return to Africa, and as a matter of fact, threatens to leave the imperial service. He has had a quarrel with the authorities of the colonial office over the appointment to his staff of a certain Herr von Eltz, who was associated with the recent accusations made against Dr. Carl Peters, the explorer. E. Eugene Wolff, the explorer, in an article in the Berlin Tageblatt, makes a sharp attack upon the colonial office authorities for their action in sending Lieutenant Werther on a mission to East Africa to explore a supposed region of gold reefs. In 1885 Herr Wolff directed the attention of the colonial office to Werther's conduct, abuse of power and exactions while he was at the head of a geological research expedition in Africa. The colonial office authorities in reply to this asked Wolff to keep silent about the matter, and assured him that Werther would never again be similarly engaged by the colonial office. Herr Wolff now protests against Werther's second mission, and declares that there is no gold in the regions which he has gone to explore. The whole matter, Herr Wolff maintains, is a job.

The blindness of the Grand Duke of Mecklenburg-Strelitz led him into a dangerous predicament last Wednesday, while on his way to the horse fair at New Brandenburg. As he was being led across a railroad track, his foot became caught in the rails and could not be extricated. The consequence was that he was forced to remain standing for some time in the middle of the line over which there was a very large traffic owing to the horse fair, and the trains had to be brought to a standstill by the signal men until the grand duke's foot was finally released by its being forced out of his boot.

The Empress on the occasion of the birthday of Crown Prince William, who was 14 years old last Wednesday, paid a visit to the crown prince and his brother, Prince Eitel Frederick, at Ploen, where they are at school, returning to Berlin Wednesday evening.

Major General A. McD. McCook, United States commissioner to attend the coronation of the Czar of Russia, accompanied by his aides, colonel McCook and Captain Sorlien, military attaches to the United States legation at Rome; Miss McCook, J. B. McCockand wife, and Mrs. C. B. Alexander, of New York, will start from Berlin for Moscow to-morrow.

NATIONAL LEAGUE.

Chicago-Boston.

Chicago, May 11.—Harrington's home run over left field fence tied the score in the ninth inning to-day after a game that was replete with fine playing. In the last half of the ninth, however, Harrington's wild throw to first, after two men had been retired, gave Everett a chance and Dahlen rapped out a double to center and the game was won. Score: Chicago, 4; Boston, 3.

Cleveland-Philadelphia.

Cleveland, May 11.—Cuppy held the heavy hitters from Philadelphia down to two hits until the eighth inning to-day, when they caught on to his delivery, and pounded out nine runs, eight of which were earned. Score: Cleveland, 2; Philadelphia, 10.

Cincinnati-Washington.

Cincinnati, May 11.—Threatening weather, combined with showers, which fell about two hours, kept to-day's attendance down to 1,000. The game was very one-sided, the locals finding no trouble in batting McJames, when they pleased. Score: Cincinnati, 10; Washington, 4.

St. Louis-Baltimore.

St. Louis, May 11.—The Baltimores took a hard-fought game to-day by superior batting. Clarke is now captain of the Browns, Latham and Niland are on the bench, and Von Der Ahe "manager." Score: St. Louis, 2; Baltimore, 4.

Pittsburg-New York.

Pittsburg, May 11.—Pittsburg hit the ball to-day at the right time, while New York made their errors at the same time and in consequence the home team won. It was an uninteresting game, despite the closeness of the score. Clarke pitched what might be called "lazy" ball. Attendance, 1,200. Score: Pittsburg, 4; New York, 2.

Gold Reserve.

Washington, May 11.—The treasury lost $[illegible] in gold, of which $[illegible] was withdrawn for export. This leaves the treasury gold reserve $[illegible].

WEYLER OBJECTS TO INTERFERENCE.

Protests Against the Action of the United States.

HIS RESIGNATION SENT IN.

It is Understood that it Was Refused by the Government—Reported Engagements in Which Insurgents Were Worsted.

Madrid, May 11.—Prime Minister Castillo had a lengthy conference to-day with the Hon. Hamlin Taylor, the American minister, on the subject of the Cuban situation. The result of the conference is not known.

It is reported that Captain General Weyler has stated that it will be impossible for him to conduct the campaign in Cuba in the manner the conditions required if the Spanish officers are to be hampered at every turn by the irritating interference of the Washington government. It is also stated that the United States have again urged the payment of indemnities to the Americans whose chattels and other property have been burned by the insurgents.

WEYLER'S RESIGNATION.

Thought to Have Been Offered and Not Accepted.

Havana, May 11.—The report that Captain General Weyler had resigned because of the action of the home government in the case of the Competitor filibusters is thought to be true, but it is not accepted with confidence by the public here. It is understood that the government refused to accept the resignation and ordered General Weyler to remain at his post under the present circumstances.

Colonel Segura reports having had an engagement with a large rebel force near Cienaguita, a short distance from Remedios, in which the insurgents lost 11 killed. The rebels retreated and were followed by the troops. The latter, in their pursuit, met another force of 1000 insurgents under command of Carrillo. After two hours fighting the rebels were dislodged from the strong position occupied by them. They left 16 dead on the field. The troops then attacked a rebel fortified camp and dislodged the insurgents, who lost 27 killed. The Spanish lost in all the engagements one officer and four soldiers killed and two officers and 16 soldiers wounded.

Insurgents attacked the forts guarding the town of Artemisia, but were repulsed.

Colonel Solomayor reports that he met the rebels, led by Lazo brothers, who were encamped near Remates. A hot fight ensued, which resulted in the defeat of the insurgents with a loss of 29 killed. The Spanish loss was one killed and three wounded.

Manerto Romero, a rebel leader, has been sentenced to death at Cienfuegos.

Ychacio Narin, convicted of rebellion and incendiarism, was shot this morning at Matanzas.

METHODIST CONFERENCE.

Chaplain McCabe a Candidate for the Episcopacy.

Cleveland, May 11.—An attempt to deal a blow to Dr. Buckley of New York, who is a candidate for the Episcopacy, was made by the Rev. Dr. William Knight of California, in the Methodist conference to-day, asking all that part of the speech of Dr. Buckley which referred to the lack of enough spiritual backbone in the conference delegates to properly spend Sunday if the elections were held on Monday, be stricken from the record. The conference almost unanimously tabled the resolution.

The all-absorbing topic after the conference adjourned was the four new bishoprics which it is proposed to erect.

The change of the date of voting has made the campaign a lively one. The chance, which Dr. Buckley strongly supported, comes with the light announcement that the Doctor has decided not to allow his name to be presented to the conference as a candidate. Four years ago, at Omaha, Earl Cranston of the Western Book Concern, was asked by a committee if he would withdraw from the book concern with a view to being elected bishop. At that time he refused, but now he is of another mind. He would accept the elevation to the Episcopacy with alacrity and it must be admitted that he has considerable strength.

Chaplain C. C. McCabe is another possibility who has developed considerable strength within the last 48 hours. The chaplain is popular, and his strength lies among the friends of every candidate before the conference. In regard to Dr. J. W. E. Bowen, the colored candidate, the situation is still unchanged, and probably will remain so.

But there are two men, whose names have not yet appeared in public in connection with the election, whose chances are to be compared favorably with those of any avowed candidates in the conference. They are Dr. John W. Hamilton of New England, secretary of the Freedman's Aid society, and Dr. H. J. Jackson of Chicago. It is the old case of the bringing forward of a dark horse; and Jackson is to be a dark horse around whom the Western and Central States

Suit Against Belt.

London, May 11.—A large shareholder in the British South Africa company, acting in concert with other shareholders, has entered an action in the high court of justice against Mr. Cecil J. Rhodes, one of the officers of the company, in South Africa, claiming an inquiry concerning the damages sustained by the company and the payment of an indemnity therefor owing to Mr. Belt having aided and abetted the invasion of the Transvaal by Dr. Jameson and his troopers. The company is joined in the suit as formal defendants.

Mind Reading.

Prof. Charles F. Haynes gave a very brilliant exhibition of mind reading at the Coliseum last evening. During the afternoon the professor demonstrated to a large crowd on the streets that he was able to accomplish all that he claimed.

The performance in the evening was fully equal to anything of the kind ever given in this or any other city in the art of mind reading. The major part of the tests were not as severe as the professor anticipated, but were sufficiently so to convince the people present that some persons possess the mysterious power of reading the minds of others.

The professor was assisted by a number of well-known citizens, who occupied the stage and who closely inspected everything to prevent trickery or deception. These gentlemen were the first to give the mind reader well deserved applause. The programme passed off smoothly until the locating of a pin-hole came on. The professor experienced some difficulty in finding the exact location of the pin-hole, but this was not due to any failure on his part, but to the committee who had the matter in charge. Tests of various kinds were made and each was performed with apparently the greatest ease and greatly to the delight of the audience. The final and concluding number of the programme of the evening was the marking of a name in an old hotel register, and then hiding the register, which the mind reader is supposed to find and turn to the right page and point out the name of the once guest of the hotel. This is the crucial test of all mind reading, and during the solving of which the great mind reader Bishop, a few years ago in New York, fell into a catalepsic fit and died.

The ease and facility with which Prof. Haynes performed this feat is quite remarkable. To find the old register, which had been secreted underneath a row of seats in the center of the room, and carry it back to the table on the stage, was but the work of a few moments. The turning to the proper page and placing his finger on the name marked by the committee occupied but little longer, and the greatest of feats in mind reading had been successfully performed.

Professor Haynes leaves the hall while the committee is preparing tests and is blindfolded tightly when he returns. He then takes the hand or wrist of one of the committeemen and starts to find the secreted objects, or return borrowed articles to their rightful owners in the audience. Not once during the evening did he make a mistake. The performance is well worth seeing and will be repeated to-night with an entire change of programme.

One of the most remarkable things done by Professor Haynes is the abnormal increasing of the pulse beats. Drs. Arnold and Allen were invited on the stage to time the beats, and credited the professor with 160 beats per minute.

M. W. EVERLETH.

Death of a Once Prominent Citizen of Colorado Springs.

Ex-Postmaster Melvin W. Everleth died in this city Sunday morning at 4 o'clock. The funeral services will be held at 10 o'clock at All Souls Unitarian church.

Mr. Everleth was for many years a well known citizen of this place. He came here nearly twenty years ago. For some years he was in business for himself. Later he was assistant postmaster under E. L. Price. In 1889 President Harrison appointed him postmaster, which position he held until March 1893, resigning on account of ill health. About seven years ago Mr. Everleth had a severe stroke of paralysis, since which time he has been a great sufferer.

Mr. W. Everleth was an ex-soldier of the great Rebellion. At the age of fifteen years he ran away from home and joined the First Maine cavalry, which saw perhaps more hard fighting than any regiment in the war. Near the close of the great struggle the regiment was permitted to carry a battle flag which showed that it had been in four more battles and had lost 64 more men than any other regiment, either cavalry or infantry. One week from the day of his enlistment he took part in the battle of Yellow Tavern. He was also at Second Bull Run, South Mountain, Antietam, Gettysburg, Mine Run, in the Wilderness, in front of Petersburg, and with Sheridan's raid around Richmond. He was wounded slightly twice, but not enough to disable him. The hardest service that he ever saw was with Dahlgren in his famous raid around Richmond. Of the 500 men who took part in this raid, fifty were selected by Dahlgren from the First Maine regiment. Very few came out of it alive.

Mr. Everleth was a very quiet man, courteous and pleasant, and during his long years of service in the postoffice was very popular. While his health permitted, he was prominent in city affairs. He was an ex-commander of the Grand Army post of this city and one year was the senior vice commander of the Department of Colorado and Wyoming. He leaves a wife, but no children. All friends and members of the G. A. R. post are invited to be present at the funeral this morning, although it will not be conducted by the post.

A Strange Story.

Sunday morning about 11 o'clock a stranger arrived in Manitou and stated to the citizens of that place that his partner was lost somewhere on Pike's Peak. He said that he and his partner left the town of Gillett to come to Manitou. They lost their way, and in the night got on Pike's Peak. Some time during the night his companion fell and he could hear him bounding down the side of the mountain. He called to him, but could get no answer after that. He wandered around and in the morning reached Cascade. He thought the place where his partner fell was up near what is called the bottomless pit. About 4 o'clock Sunday afternoon a party of Manitou men was made up, and they went with the stranger up on the side of Pike's Peak. Last evening they returned home and stated that they had been unable to find any trace of the missing man. The whole affair seems rather mysterious. It might be that the man did not have his bearings correct in the night and that his companion may be lost in some other part of the mountain. Inquiry at Manitou last evening failed to reveal the name of the stranger.

Mr. Bumstead Retires.

In another part of this paper will be found an official announcement of the dissolution of the firm of E. S. Bumstead & Co., the senior partner, Mr. Bumstead, retiring. The business will be conducted by his former partners, the Sto John brothers. Mr. Bumstead has been in the plumbing business in this city since 1880, and upon his retirement wishes to thank his many friends who have patronized him in the past, and especially those old-time citizens who were his patrons for so many years. The new members of the firm are J. C. St. John, recently elected councilman from the Third ward; W. B. and E. P. St. John, all of whom have lived in this city for the past 16 years. They are fully equipped to carry on the business successfully in all its branches, and no doubt will continue to hold the large patronage which the old firm has always enjoyed.

Y. M. C. A. Notes.

Owing to a wedding at the same hour, Rev. Mr. Crane was unable to speak to the young men Sunday afternoon at the association, but Dr. W. F. Martin filled the position very ably.

The Young Men's Bible Study club will meet this evening at 6 and have their regular monthly tea together. The lesson will begin as usual at 7:30.

The May meeting of the board of directors of the association will be held this evening at 6 o'clock.

Foodlets.

Landladies get to be pretty shrewd judges of character, as is shown by the recent remark of one whose house is upper New York is always full. "I don't want kickers," she says, "and I don't want the folks who come to me with tales of the fine homes they are just leaving and how they don't see what they're going to do in two or three rooms, and, most of all, I don't want the woman or man either who says: 'You'll find me an easy person to get on with. I make no trouble whatever.' The persons I like are those who make the matter a business transaction; who ask what I have to sell in the way of rooms, and table and what I charge for them just as they would buy a yard of cloth; who don't turn up a corner of the mattress in my presence to see if it is hair, but who say frankly that they want comfortable beds and ask if I can give them. I'm glad that the increase in the occupations open to women has reduced very appreciably the number of those who must take boarders, for, though it is possible to secure a fair living out of the business, I know of none where one's self respect is so mercilessly, needlessly and continually sacrificed."—New York Times.

CITY COUNCIL IN SESSION.

Druggists Got Their Liquor Licenses Last Night.

BIDS OPENED FOR BRIDGES.

J. B. Marsh will Build the Shook's Run Structures—City Will Care For the Lawns in the Nevada Avenue Open Park.

At the meeting of the City Council last evening, the Mayor was absent and Alderman Leach presided. All members were present excepting Aldermen Barnett and Watson.

The clerk read a communication from the presidents of the Village Improvement society and Chamber of Commerce asking that the council appoint a committee to represent it in the Quarter Centennial celebration. Upon motion the invitation was accepted and the acting mayor later in the evening appointed the following: Irving Howbert, T. C. Parrish and John Potter.

The police committee recommended that T. C. Calloway be appointed to have charge of the parks this summer. The report was accepted and the clerk was instructed to cast the white ballot.

An invitation was read from the G. A. R. post, requesting the presence of the council in a body on Decoration Day. The invitation was accepted.

J. A. Vornecs presented a bill of $200 damages on account of the burning of his barn in which a case of glanders was found. Although the barn was burned by order of the city officials it is a state matter. After consideration the matter was referred to the finance committee and the attorney.

A petition with many signers was read asking the council to have the city take charge of the lawns in the open strip on Nevada avenue. It resulted in considerable discussion. A motion was finally made by Alderman McCreery that the street committee take the care of the lawn, and it was adopted. As the citizens have gone to such expense to put the lawn in shape it was thought best not to let it die out. It was agreed that the city will care for any lawn that the citizens along the avenue will prepare, so that in time it is probable that the whole street will be parked.

A petition from residents on Boulder Crescent was read asking for a light at the end of the street. Referred to the street committee.

The matter of liquor licenses for the druggists came up next. All of the druggists had an application excepting Tatinson, and all [illegible] Alderman Woodland moved that the [illegible] be not granted. This was lost, only Alderman Dill voting with him. A motion was then made that the licenses be granted. Alderman Woodland called attention to the fact that the men [illegible] Alderman McCreary [illegible] that this council has nothing to do with that. If the druggists go to breaking the law he for one would vote to cancel their licenses.

The licenses were then granted, there being one new one, that of J. R. Davis & Co.

A plat for the sub-division of a lot was filed by the Colorado Fuel and Iron company and referred to the street committee.

Bids were opened for the construction of three bridges over Shook's run. [illegible] had been asked for both iron and wooden bridges. Among the bidders for iron bridges were George E. King Bridge company, Chicago Bridge company, C. E. H. Campbell of Minneapolis, the Wrought Iron Bridge company of Canton, O.; H. L. Aulls of Denver and J. B. Marsh, Pueblo, made three bids, and on the face of them J. B. Marsh had the lowest bid, his bids were $2,800, $3,100 and $2,900.

The bids for stone bridges were submitted by Greed & Johnson, F. Finger, Atkinson Bros. & Co., all of this city. All of these bids were over $6,000.

It was decided that the stone bridges were out of the question.

The bids of J. B. Marsh were then accepted and the officers instructed to make a contract.

Bids were opened for riprapping at the Mesa reservoir. There were two bids and it was found that Johnson & Curtis had the lowest and the work was awarded to them.

The council then adjourned.

DISTRICT COURT.

New Term Begun—Criminal Cases Set for Trial.

Yesterday was the opening day of the spring term of court in the District Court. Judge Lunt is working on the civil division and Judge Harris on the criminal. In the second division it was motion day, and the court also announced a number of decisions.

In the second division prisoners under indictment were arraigned and allowed to plead. James Neuland, charged with burglary, plead guilty and was sentenced to one year in the penitentiary.

People vs. Ned Fuller; set for May 13.

People vs. Charles Lillie; set for May 18.

People vs. Victor Dickey; entered plea of guilty.

People vs. A. J. Goodwin; motion for bill of particulars denied.

People vs. F. J. Walzar; set for May 19.

People vs. Frank Lyle; set for May 13.

People vs. Joseph Redmon; set for May 14.

People vs. George Shirley; set for May 13.

People vs. Harry H. Pyle; set for May 21.

People vs. Reuben Barnes; set for May [illegible].

In the case of A. J. Bailey, John K. Kelly, Fred Dreska, John Nash, J. C. Davison, F. Everett, R. Cosgrove, James C. Oakes, Fred Hearsard; bond ordered forfeited.

People vs. Coen, et al.; set for trial May [illegible].

Quarter of Century.

The quarter centennial celebration of the founding of Colorado Springs is taking active shape, and some good strong committees have been appointed. Yesterday the following committees were appointed to have charge: For the Chamber of Commerce, Judge Lunt, Geo. R. Buckman, Walter C. Froat. For the Village Improvement Society, W. F. Slocum, D. V. Donaldson, Geo. H. Parsons. For the City Council: Irving Howbert, Thos. C. Parrish, John Potter.

The committee will go right to work and outline a plan of celebration.

The Rocky Mountain News yesterday morning announced the prize winners in the great mystery story which it published last month entitled "Sons and Fathers." In [illegible] lady of Colorado Springs, Miss Elizabeth Porter. She ranks fourth, and secures a prize of $[illegible]. The prizes given away by the News aggregated a thousand dollars.

SOME ARE NINE MONTHS AWAY.

Individuals Who Have Nominated and Elected McKinley and Passed a New Tariff Law In Their Mind's Eye.

WASHINGTON, May 11.—[Special.] The Republicans of the senate have tried hard to postpone till next winter the case of Mr. Du Pont. This case has been bitterly contested and is thought to have considerable significance. There not being enough Republican votes in the senate at the present time to give Mr. Du Pont his seat, the managers of that party wanted the matter held over till after March 4 next, when the senate will have a clear majority of the Republican persuasion and the Delaware man can be easily seated. The Republicans are determined to let no chance to secure a protection Republican vote in the senate get by them, and this is the milk in the cocoanut in the Du Pont matter. It is not as yet clear that the Republican party will be able to pass a tariff bill during the first two years of the incoming administration. It is generally believed the Republicans will have control of the White House, the senate and the house of representatives after next March, but in the senate their majority will include five or six senators from the far west who insist upon putting silver before protection.

The Next Senate.

It is not impossible that these senators, and others who may be elected from the far west, will take that attitude in the next congress, and if they do it will be impossible to pass a general tariff revision act during the next congress. Inasmuch as the Republicans believe they are to be called into power for this express purpose and that the people will be terribly disappointed if they are unable to meet expectations, they are straining every nerve to obtain a protection majority in the next senate.

There is a great deal of talk here to the effect that the new president, to be inaugurated in a little more than nine months from this date, will call the next congress to meet in a special session within a month after his inauguration. The object in view, of course, will be the passage of a new tariff bill for the purpose of increasing the government's revenues and to make some provision for maintaining the gold reserve without resort to sales of bonds. The Republican party, which expects to come into power, will do so on a policy of distinct opposition to bond sales. They have declared this policy in many of their state platforms, and may do so in their national platform to be adopted at St. Louis. But if they come into power and find the gold reserve dwindling away they will have to do something about it.

An extra session of congress might or might not help them. It's chief result, according to present indications, would be to bring on earlier than would come by natural processes the war within the party over the silver question. If the silver senators from the far west continue the tactics which they have followed with so much success in this congress, the Republicans will find the possession of power and responsibility anything but a pleasant road to travel. The special session of congress, to meet next spring, has been suggested in the hope that it would give a year's more time in which to whip the silver Republicans into line, for it is obvious that if the Republicans are to make sure of passing a tariff revision act at all they must do so during the two years immediately following March 4.

No Promises Yet Made.

So confident are many Republicans of the nomination and election of McKinley that they are already talking about his cabinet. It is a little early for this sort of speculation, which the country knows from past experience it will have to endure a great deal of later on. But it is not too early to make public a bit of information which may be welcome in many quarters and somewhat of a surprise in others. Now and then you see in circulation statements to the effect that Mr. McKinley has promised cabinet places to this man and that. In fact, it is a favorite theory of certain politicians here at the national capital, men who have been trying to defeat Mr. McKinley's nomination, that he has promised already nearly all the places in the cabinet and the most important of the foreign missions as well. I am able to deny all these stories on what I know to be trustworthy information, though I am not at liberty to state who my informant is.

My information is very positive to the effect that Governor McKinley has not made a single promise, and that none has been made by any one in authority for him. Governor McKinley insisted long ago, when the preliminary plans for his campaign were being arranged, that he would have no promises made, and that if he were to succeed and become president he wanted to go into office without any definite obligations hanging over him. This wish has been respected by his managers, and I am told that the man does not live who can truthfully say he has been promised an office as compensation for his support of McKinley.

But Some Will Be Remembered.

This does not mean that men who have been prominent in their support of McKinley will not get office in case their favorite becomes president. Mr. McKinley would be a queer sort of man and would organize his administration on unprecedented and fatal lines if he were to assume that no obligation to remember his friends rests upon him. Doubtless most of the important places in the government will be filled by men who have been more or less friendly to the man who becomes master of all the patronage, and this is true whether the next president shall be McKinley or Allison or Reed or Harrison or Platt or Quay or Cleveland or Morrison or Boies or Whitney or Russell or Pattison.

The amateur in politics thinks a candidate for the presidency goes around making promises just like a candidate for sheriff or mayor. But the man who has had intimate connection with presidential politics knows that such promises are rarely made in advance of nomination, and only occasionally between nomination and election. Now and then some special pledge is given for the sake of covering critical points in a campaign, but, as a rule, everything is left to a general understanding, without passing special promises. Literally a new president takes office without obligations, except those of loyalty to his friends and supporters.

The Children.

When one considers that so much of a child's first knowledge of the world he lives in must come through contact with objects around him, it seems a pity to retard it by teaching it that it is not right to lift and pinch and pound its surroundings. How does it known that china will break, paper tear and heat burn? One mother who believes she has the right method has surrounded her babies in their playroom by things that are not easily injured. The playthings are of rubber, the cats, dogs and dolls of calico, the picture books of linen and the dishes pewter. The nursery need not be devoid of beauty with this theory. Good pictures may be upon the walls and plants and birds out of harm's way at the window.—New York Post.

WEAR ERMINE EVERY DAY.

The Toilet of a Lapland Woman Also Includes Whale Oil and Ornaments.

A fat old woman toddled down to meet me, her broad face shining with whale oil, her dress inside out to keep it clean, her husband's hair in a bunch on top of her head, her toes turned in and her elbows turned out. I felt that I had fully realized my ideal.

With convulsive giggles she grasped my hand firmly in one of hers. With the other she patted me affectionately on the shoulder. Evidently I impressed her as presenting an utterly absurd appearance, for after looking me all over she would shut her eyes, shake her head from side to side and go off into a fit of laughter.

Soon afterward another woman joined her, the wife of one of the chiefs. She was really pretty. Her teeth were even and white, her hands and feet shapely, her eyes of a dark hazel color, and a pretty tinge of red showed through the clear olive brown of her cheeks. Her black, heavy hair was plaited on each side of her head in a short doubled braid, and she had a huge knot on top of her head that looked like a handle. This is made from the hair from the crown of the husband's head, which is shaved periodically and collected to add to the wife's topknot.

This woman wore a beautifully sewed and elaborately trimmed dress made of reindeer skin with the hair on. It consisted of a skirt, reaching to the middle of the thigh, and trousers and shoes made in one garment, the trousers of the white, short hair of the legs of the deer, and shoes or moccasins of dressed sealskin. The upper garment was trimmed with bands of white deerskin and strips of wolverene fur, and the immense hood, in which the babies are carried, was edged with wolf's fur. An ermine skin, with head and claws still on, and an eagle's feather were attached to the hood as ornaments.

From her waist was suspended a cord of whaleskin, to which were fastened needlecase, seam presser, shuttle for making nets—all of walrus ivory—and little thimbles of sealskin shaped like the end of a glove, with the side seams opened and fastened to the forefinger by a loop of the skin.—Outing.

WEDLOCK IS DIFFICULT.

Many Preliminaries Before the Married State May Be Entered.

It is possible Mark Twain might have spared his sneer at French marital affairs had he understood how difficult it is to enter the condition of wedlock in the land of Bourget and Blouet. Months are sometimes consumed in the arrangement of preliminaries.

Under the French law a girl may not marry until she is over 15 years old, and a man until he is more than 18. Men under 25 and women under 21 must have the consent of their fathers and mothers. After that age the consent of the father alone is necessary. The father may withhold his consent for three months. The son or the daughter must ask him three times. If he refuses the third time and both are of legal age, they may be married without the paternal blessing. When the woman is 25 and the man is 30, they are required to ask the father only twice. The asking must be through a notary, who makes an official record of the fact.

After having waited for the approval of the head of the home and received it, the patient French lovers must post at the mairie of their arrondissement on two successive Sundays the announcement of their intention, and that if anybody has any objection, he or she shall file it with the mayor or his assistant. If nobody has objection, the lovers may be united three days after the posting of the second notice. If there should be objection, the mayor looks into it. This investigation may take another week. If the objection turns out not to be legal, Armand and Susette may stand up before the mayor, sign their names in a big book, and get out a certificate. If they are good Catholics, they will go to the priest and get married again.

A citizen of France who returns to his country with the intention of living there, after marrying in a foreign land, must, within three months after his return, have his certificate registered at the office of the mayor nearest the place where he resides.—Chicago Times-Herald.

Her Ancestor.

"Zeal," remarked a member of the Society of the Daughters of the American Revolution the other day, "is sometimes misplaced. I've been urging a friend whose family I know to be an old Revolutionary one to become a Daughter. She had never shown any enthusiasm about joining, and her conservatism had simply the effect to increase my desire that she should. So when one day last week I found myself unexpectedly tete-a-tete with her for a trip to Philadelphia, I renewed my attack with a bold move. As the train was leaving Jersey City I said in my most engaging manner: 'Now, my dear Mrs. S., I have you at my mercy for two full hours. Before we reach Philadelphia you must have promised me that you will come into the Daughters. I warn you that you may as well yield first as last, for yield you must.' We want you very much.' Mrs. S. smiled rather peculiarly. 'Are you sure you will want me,' she said quietly, 'when I tell you that my most prominent Revolutionary ancestor was Benedict Arnold?'"—New York Times.

The Government Likes Red.

Somehow or other the United States government seems to go in a great deal for red, which some people have always supposed was a British color. They buy mostly red blankets for the Indians. It is being much used in the navy. The postoffice department paints its letter boxes a hideous vermillion and makes its 2 cent postage stamps which go into almost everybody's mouth of almost the same glaring color. Philadelphia Times.

"Post haste" recalls the days when everybody who was in a hurry and could afford the expense traveled post that is, with relays of horses at the end of every five or ten miles of the journey, the fresh animals thus enabling greater speed to be made.

How to Treat a Wife.

(From Pacific Health Journal.)

First, get a wife; second, be patient. You may have great trials and perplexities in your business, but do not therefore, carry to your home a cloudy or contracted brow. Your wife may have trials, which, though of less magnitude, may be hard for her to bear. A kind word, a tender look, will do wonders in chasing from her brow all clouds of gloom.—To this we would add always keep a bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy in the house. It is the best and is sure to be needed sooner or later. Your wife will then know that you really care for her and wish to protect her health.

Burns are absolutely painless when DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve is promptly applied. This statement is true. A perfect remedy for skin diseases, chapped hands and lips, and never fails to cure piles. Colorado Springs Drug Co.

For every quarter in a man's pocket there are a dozen uses; and to use each one in such a way as to derive the greatest benefit is the question every one must solve for himself. We believe, however, that no better use could be made of one of these quarters than to exchange it for a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhœa Remedy, a medicine that every family should be provided with.

Take a dose of DeWitt's Little Early Risers just for the good they will do you. These little pills are good for indigestion, good for headache, good for liver complaint, good for constipation. They are good. Colorado Springs Drug Co.

Mr. D. P. Davis, a prominent liveryman and merchant of Goshen, Va. has this to say on the subject of rheumatism: "I take pleasure in recommending Chamberlain's Pain Balm for rheumatism, as I know from personal experience that it will do all that is claimed for it. A year ago this spring my brother was laid up in bed with inflammatory rheumatism and suffered intensely. The first application of Chamberlain's Pain Balm eased the pain and the use of one bottle completely cured him.

We might tell you more about One Minute Cough Cure, but you probably know that it cures a cough. Everyone does who has used it. It is a perfect remedy for coughs, colds, hoarseness. It is an especial favorite for children, being pleasant to take and quick in curing. Colorado Springs Drug Co.

Two Lives Saved.

Mrs. Phoebe Thomas of Junction City, Ill., was told by her doctors she had consumption and that there was no hope for her, but two bottles Dr. King's New Discovery completely cured her and she says it saved her life. Mr. Thomas Eggers, 139 Florida street, San Francisco, suffered from a dreadful cold, approaching consumption, tried without result everything else then bought one bottle of Dr. King's New Discovery and in two weeks was cured. He is naturally thankful. It is such results, of which these are samples, that prove the wonderful efficacy of this medicine in coughs and colds. Free trial bottles at Baker & Co.'s drug store. Annual Meeting.

The annual meeting of the stockholders of the Black Joe Mining, Milling and Land Company will be held on Tuesday, the twelfth day of May, 1896, at the office of the company, 17 East Pike's Peak avenue, at 10 o'clock a. m., for the purpose of electing directors for the ensuing year and for the transaction of such other business as may properly come before such meeting.

A. L. LAWTON, President.
BARNRAM ZEVELY, Secretary.

A special stockholders' meeting in lieu of the regular annual meeting of The Maggie Reeves Gold Mining company will be held at the company's office, 13 Pike's Peak avenue, Colorado Springs, Thursday, May 28, 1896, at 10 o'clock, a. m., for the election of seven (7) directors and for the consideration of the proposition to consolidate the Maggie Reeves and Wheel of Fortune companies and reducing the capitalization thereof.

As it is important that a majority of the stock should be represented, I ask as an especial favor, if you cannot be present, to forward enclosed proxy to me as early as convenient and oblige.

Books closed for transfer three days prior. FRED F. HORN, Secretary.

THE DENVER WAY.

To one unacquainted with the methods of political warfare customary in Arapahoe county, the spectacle there presented at the present time would be a most pitiable one. If we have not the very best of reasons for believing that every man prominent in political life is a blackguard we have at least the best authorities obtainable in Denver that such is the case. Each one of the newspaper organs which has the honor to represent a faction in Arapahoe county politics has no hesitation whatever in declaring that its opponents are influenced by unworthy motives, that they are boodlers and "pie-eaters," the latter being a term of doubtful meaning but of special obloquy invented for the purposes of this particular campaign.

The Denver Republican summed up the situation as follows:

"The county convention will contain 712 delegates, and two forces will compete for its control. The honest and patriotic delegates, who believe that the overwhelming sentiment of Colorado's chief city should be given effective utterance in favor of bime-allism before all things, and the election of Teller, with seven colleagues equally tried and trustworthy as supporters of that paramount issue, to represent Colorado at St. Louis, will be led by Mayor McMurray, and their victory ought to be easy and certain.

"Opposed to this force will be the heelers and tools of the Wolcott-Stevenson-Graham-Evans-Brady combine, aided by the local appointees of Gov. McIntire and all the quasi public corporations which depend on municipal franchises for their opportunities to levy unearned tribute on the people of this community.

"The managers of this combine want to send Senator Wolcott and Mr. A. M. Stevenson as delegates to St. Louis, as the direct result of this convention, and incidentally they desire to secure control of the party machinery in Arapahoe county to aid their own selfish schemes in the fall election."

Now if this were true, the duty of every good citizen would be apparent, and the result would not be long in doubt. But it is not true, and neither The Republican nor anyone else believes it to be true. It is merely the Denver way of saying that The Republican is on the side of Mayor McMurray and opposed to the idea of endorsing Senator Wolcott's position. Politics in Arapahoe county have reached the pass where that sort of thing is considered necessary to the conduct of every campaign.

It is a most unfortunate condition. Such frantic appeals to prejudice and such rank misstatements make it very much more difficult for the voter to reach an honest decision in regard to any question of party or public policy. It tends very much to weaken the influence of the capital city in the State council of the party, for we have the word of the Denver papers themselves that their caucuses and conventions are controlled by trickery and bribery. It leads the outsider to the belief that a part at least of what the Denver people say of themselves must be true and that if there are any decent people at all in politics in Denver they are so much in the minority as to be entirely inconspicuous.

For ourselves, we have too long and too intimate an acquaintance with the Republicans of Arapahoe county to believe these lies and slanders. When we see the names of reputable business men and of decent women on an Arapahoe county ticket, we do not explain it by saying that "in self-defense the gang had to place one or two reputable citizens on each of their tickets as a sugar-coating." On the contrary, we believe that Republicans may honestly differ as to whether it is wise for the Colorado delegates to St. Louis to bolt from the national convention, and as to whether such action will tend to advance the cause of silver, and we also believe that the result of the Arapahoe convention indicates this time, as it has done at other times, the honest preferences of the Denver Republicans, and that, too, with very little regard to newspaper mudslingers.

AN INVITATION TO SUICIDE.

It is very evidently the wish of every foe of Republicanism in Colorado that our party should commit itself to the silver or nothing policy at the earliest possible moment. If we are to take stock in what is told us by our very ready advisers from other parties, just so soon as the national convention declares in favor of a candidate who is not openly pledged to silver coinage and promulgates a platform which does not declare for immediate and unconditional free coinage, Colorado Republicans ought to bolt—that is they ought to put themselves on record as opposed to any such candidate or platform, without any regard to what any other party may do.

It is not at all certain what the Democrats will do. It is not certain whether the Chicago convention will be controlled by the silver or by the gold wing of that party. It is not certain that either of these factions will bolt and organize a separate party in the event of the other being in control. It is not at all certain even that Grover Cleveland will not be accepted as the last refuge of despairing Democracy and that party ties will not be strong enough to rally to his support all the foes of protection and Republicanism. We have not forgotten that Colorado Democrats, who are now so free in their advice as to what is best for silver, voted for Weaver four years ago, under the orders of the Democratic committee, because that was the most effective way of helping the election of Cleveland. We cannot be blind to the fact that whatever small chance the Democratic party might have this year under any possible circumstances, would be smothered by the hasty and inconsiderate action now recommended to Republicans.

Under such circumstances we cannot give entire good faith to our advisers. The Republican party of Colorado is too much in the position of a wealthy man who is invited to suicide by disinterested friends who have promised to look after his property.

The trial of the captain and some of the crew of the schooner Competitor now promises to become one of the most important incidents of the Cuban war. These men were captured in Cuban waters and sentenced to death after a very short trial under military law. The United States have protested against the carrying out of the sentence under such conditions, and the whole matter has been referred to the royal authorities at Madrid for final action. In spite of the large amount of prejudice and ill-feeling to which the incident is giving rise on both sides, we believe that the most probable outcome is a friendly agreement either that these men should be punished for their violation of Spanish law, or that they should be acquitted because their guilt cannot be proven. There is a great disposition on the side of the Spanish to regard this as an opportunity for striking terror into the hearts of other filibusters and of taking it for granted that all Americans, both individuals and officials, are animated by an active sympathy for Cuban insurgents. On the other hand, there is too much of a disposition on the part of Americans to overlook the rights which the Spaniards undoubtedly have, and to think that the proof of American citizenship ought to release these men from any responsibility to Spanish law. Fortunately the settlement of this delicate matter will not be left in the hands of irresponsible parties on either side, and now that the possibility of hasty action has been removed by the reference of the affair to the government at Madrid, we may expect to see a settlement that will be honorable and satisfactory to both governments.

We print to-day a number of communications concerning Colorado College, which are worthy of serious attention. They prove the abundant esteem and respect in which that institution is held by those who are in the best position to judge of the work which it is accomplishing. It frequently happens that colleges like prophets find their chief admirers among strangers, and one has to go out of town to find proper appreciation of the work of some leader in a particular line whose work is highly approved by the masters of his specialty. That this local misunderstanding does not prevail in regard to the work and the professors of Colorado College has been abundantly shown in the past. The college has no more loyal and earnest friends than those who reside in Colorado Springs, and they fully appreciate the quality of the work that is being done.

The proposal to celebrate the twenty-fifth anniversary of the city's foundation seems to have been well received. The Chamber of Commerce and the Village Improvement society have already acted in the matter by the appointment of committees, and the City Council was asked last evening to take similar action. A good start has therefore been made, and we have no doubt the matter will be carried to a satisfactory conclusion.

The Florence Refiner of May 8th is handsomely printed on heavy book paper, with portraits of prominent citizens and illustrations of prominent business blocks of that city. A very attractive showing is made, and the edition appears to be a very successful one of its kind.

The account of the Book Carnival will be reprinted in The Weekly Gazette Thursday morning. Those who wish extra copies should send in their orders to-day.

The amount of the Pearsons Fund secured up to date, not including the Book Carnival Fund, is $76,478.81. This leaves a balance of $73,521.19 to be obtained before July 1st, 1896.

The McKinley boom has already reached the stage where possible cabinets are being discussed. This is counting chickens altogether too previously.

The Rocky Ford Enterprise of May 7th publishes a handsome illustrated supplement devoted to the agricultural interests of the Arkansas valley.

The Colorado Springs team seems to have found the way to play winning ball. Here's hoping it may continue.

Democratic Reciprocity.

During the past year England has paid off more of her national debt than during any other period of her history. The United States has added to her debt during the same year more than during any other year except in the time of war.—(Exchange.

Railway Work in Utah.

More railroad work is being done in Utah just at the present time than in any of the Transmissouri States. Grading is being actively pushed on the Sanpete Valley line, and also on the Salt Lake and Pacific, generally known as the Deep Creek line, while the Rio Grande Western is vigorously at work on its Marysvale extension, and also has surveyors in the field between Provo and Park City.—(Denver News.

The Wearing of Egret Plumes.

Nothing for some time has been more commonly seen than the delicate, airy plumes which stand upright in ladies' bonnets. These little feathers were provided by nature as the nuptial adornment of the white heron. Many kind-hearted women who would not on any account do a cruel act, yet are, by following this fashion, causing a continuance of a very great cruelty. In speaking of the excuses for wearing these ornaments, W. H. Hudson, author of The Naturalist in La Plata, says: "I gather from repeatedly assured me in all seriousness that milliners make these fine plumes out of the commonest feathers. * * * The algrette worn by ladies in our day is in nearly all cases actually made of the slender, decomposed feathers that grow at one time of the year on the egret's back and drop gracefully over the sides and tail of the bird. The less fine plumes with shorter and stiffer filaments are from the squacco heron, which is not an egret." Mr. Hudson adds that those who engage in the business of procuring these plumes know that to obtain a good supply with little trouble the birds must be taken when the breeding season is well advanced. The best time to attack them is when the young birds are fully fledged but not yet able to fly; for at that time the solicitude of the parent birds is greatest and, forgetful of their own danger, they are most readily made victims. "And," he most readily made victims. "And," he continues, "when the killing is finished and the few handfuls of coveted feathers have been plucked out, the slaughtered birds are left in a white heap to fester in the sun and wind in the sight of their orphaned young that cry for food and are not fed. There is nothing in the whole world so pitiable as this—so pitiable and shameful—that for such a purpose human cunning should take advantage of that feeling and instinct which we regard as so noble in our own species and as something sacred—the tender passion for the parent for its offspring, which causes it to neglect its own safety and to perish miserably a sacrifice to its love. * * * And those who, not ignorant of the facts, encourage such things for fashion's sake, and for the gratification of a miserable vanity, have a part in it, and are perhaps more guilty than the wretches who are paid to do the rough work."

Paderewski's touch is extravagantly praised, but it not to be compared with that of the Prince of Wales, who succeeded in borrowing $7,000,000 from the late Baron Hirsch.—(Globe-Democrat.

THE COLLEGE AND THE CRISIS.

More Opinions of Leading Citizens Regarding It.

A UNANIMOUS ENDORSEMENT

Sentiment of Strength to the City Guarantee of Permanence. Failure to Support the Institution Would Be a Calamity.

The following are the opinions of some well-known citizens regarding the advantages of Colorado College to the community and the importance of making every effort to secure the Pearsons fund:

An Element of Strength.

What Moffat's bank is to the river or the First National to Colorado Springs financial elements of strength, Colorado College, if at all properly estimated, will be to this city in other important moral elements that go to make up the life and prosperity of a community. Its value can not even be measured by the cap it would leave if removed. No more appreciative and amiable men, for the trends young men of Yale. New Haven is a seaport and a prosperous city of manufacture, yet it could not spare the millions and the men that Yale brings to it annually. We can ill afford to lose the influence of the College. It keeps our best young men at home. There seems to be no reason why we should not have here, in time, the Western Yale. We have the sense and foresight to provide for our fire outlay so well.

HENRY C. HALL.

A Great Honor to the City.

Colorado College is certainly a great honor to our city, and an institution of which we are justly proud. It has made rapid progress, and has now reached a point where its future is assured. There can be no question but that with the support which Colorado College now has it will be established with proper support on a basis as the great educational center of the city, moreover [illegible]. Our people cannot afford to let the opportunity go by, for the failure to secure the money will seriously cripple the institution.

IRVING HOWBERT.

Second Only to Climate.

I am glad to give expression to my interest and belief in the College, and to say that I think that all who desire the prosperity and growth of Colorado Springs ought to do all they can to increase its endowment. A well-equipped college is one of the greatest attractions that can be offered to those whom we desire as citizens. Besides the opportunity for education that it offers, its contribution to mental and social life of the town is a very great attraction to a large number of people. The College has already shown that it is a potent means of bringing here many besides those who are actually engaged in its work as instructors or students. Besides this, there is of great importance to us as an element which insures the permanence of the town. We are accustomed to hopes and chances in this Western life, but a college is an institution that promises to rise above them. Each year, with its growing number of students and its alumni, with its widening circle of friends and enthusiastic supporters, makes it more tenacious of life. In estimating the elements upon which we can depend for the future prosperity and permanence of the town, I would place first the climate, and second the College. The College will outlast many of the enterprises which at present seem to some more promising. It is here to stay, and will take a more prominent position, and reach a larger number of persons every year. Its equipment is to my mind one of the most direct ways to insure the growth and permanence of the town. On account of its attractive power, and its influence, I believe all who have the interests of Colorado Springs at heart should do all in their power to help on the College. It will be a severe blow if such indifference or lack of appreciation of what the College means to us, should skip the present opportunity to secure the Pearsons fund, for the lack of a few dollars in its funds that it urgently needs.

PHILIP WASHBURN.

High Standards.

It is with great pleasure that I note the progress which Colorado College is making in its efforts to raise the money necessary to secure the Pearsons fund. Allow me at this time, and in this connection, to express my very high appreciation of the College and the work which it is doing. It has been my good fortune, during the five years which I have spent in this city, to know somewhat intimately of the work of the College, and I am more than pleased to express my appreciation of its achievement and high standards.

[illegible] my appreciation and wishes for the success of the members of the faculty. I am glad to say that, in my judgment, they compare most favorably with those of the very best colleges in the country.

I am sure that your efforts will meet with your citizens, the reception which so richly merits. Colorado Springs can ill afford to take anything but a liberal view with regard to the present and future of Colorado College. With the very best wishes for your success, I am, very truly yours,

FRANKLIN F. BROOKS.

Should Be Among the Foremost.

Our city is one of the foremost of country as regards wealth, culture and intelligence, why not also put our colleges in the front rank of educational institutions? Even now Colorado College is an enviable position because of its efficient faculty and high standard, and with proper support [illegible] of the country.

F. A. SPERRY.

One Way to Grow.

[illegible] Garden and my thought is that a very important way to advertise our town is to work with institutions of [illegible]. To my mind one of the most [illegible] days of the [illegible] that we should do [illegible] thoughtful intelligent [illegible] to the long run the right, while the strong stay.

JOHN W. DUNBAR.

Commercial Advantage.

Colorado Springs cannot afford to allow its college to fall behind in competition with other colleges in the State. Aside from the leading college is a commercial advantage not to be overlooked by the average of the income expended in the town.

D. B. FAIRLEY.

The Give Quickly, Gives Twice.

A man who gives what he can, from $1 to $1,000 to Colorado College just is helping to do credit to the city, to add intelligent and [illegible] to the world, and to make the world better for those who come after them. If it will be only a little, it will be time well spent. We have given away; and he gives who gives quickly.

W. A. MITCHAMSON.

Pull in Every way.

[illegible] to the [illegible] and to work [illegible] Colorado College [illegible]

[illegible] Colorado College is [illegible] to be [illegible] in Colorado [illegible] the [illegible] of [illegible] the [illegible] of [illegible] the [illegible] of

Mines, Stocks, Investments

Colorado Springs Mining Stock Association.

Colorado Springs, May 11.—The market at the Exchange this morning was firm from start to finish. Trading was very active in some of the favorites, and higher figures were easily obtained for stock. Unconfirmed rumors to the effect that a rich strike had been made in the Mollie Gibson at Aspen, and that the Isabella company would soon increase its monthly dividend to 2 cents per share probably had something to do with the sudden rise in the former and the unusual strength of the latter. Outside orders for Mollie were partially executed and if the reported strike is confirmed, and is rich as expected, this old-time favorite will go much higher. The first two sales of the stock were made at 60, which was a half cent higher than Saturday's last sale. It went to 62 and 61 and then to 65, after which it fluctuated between 61 and 65, but near the close stiffened up to 66½ and 66, closing at the latter figure, with sales of 7410 shares. The first sales in Isabella took place at 54¼—½ under Saturday's final trade. Everything was quickly taken in between 54½ and 55, closing at the latter price, with sales of 10,250 shares. Union opened ½ above the last transfer on Saturday, and had sales of 3300 shares at 39½ to 39¾. Argentum, Cripple Creek Consolidated and Work remained unchanged in price. In the unlisted issues, Henrietta, Defender and Ernestine were the heaviest sellers. The market closed firm.

Will Operate at Cripple.

Colonel J. W. Pender, the eminent mining and mechanical engineer who has operated extensively in South Africa, Central America and Australia, as well as in the United States, is so well pleased with Cripple Creek, after careful examination of the district during the past three months, that he has decided to engage in mining there on a large scale. For this purpose he has organized the Geraldine Mining Investment company, of which he is president and general manager. Associated with him as directors are George F. Beveridge, who is vice president; Guy W. McGrif, secretary and treasurer; George Martin, and Mrs. Lida Demond. The company is capitalized for only $100,000, and none of its stock will be offered for sale, the promoters furnishing all the capital required for their operations, which will not be confined to Cripple Creek or Colorado. The company is working the Queen claim on Gold hill, adjoining the Anchors and Lillian Leland, and has promising property on Raven hill near the famous Doctor mine. It will acquire other desirable locations, and it will occasion no surprise if several mines are added to the list of Cripple Creek shippers through Colonel Pender's operations this summer.

The Nellie V.

The last two cars of ore shipped from the Nellie V. mine on Squaw mountain (about 25 tons in all) ran $128.40 and $144.40 per ton, respectively, or $3,736.42 for the entire lot. Another shipment is now at the Pueblo smelter awaiting treatment. The lessees expect to ship eight or ten cars before the expiration of their privileges on the first of the next month.

Maud Helenas.

What is known as the Ogstad lease, on the Maud Helenas, on Bull hill, and the property of the Pilgrim Consolidated company has at a depth of 35 feet opened up a first-class vein. The vein was only broken into on Friday night and no assays have been received as yet by the officers of the company in this city. The shaft was being sunk on a phonolyte dyke, but a vein was not expected until greater depth was reached. The Maud Helenas are very favorably located on Bull hill, and are near some of the big producers.

Ingham Strike.

A telephone message was received yesterday from Cripple Creek carrying the information that in the [illegible] level of the Ingham on Raven hill, a strike assaying from $40 to $400 per ton. The strike was only made yesterday morning and its dimensions and permanency will not be known until further work is done.

During the past week the company sent a lot of ore to the sampler that netted $50.

Specimen Points.

The Specimen company now has shipments at both the Brodie mill and the Florence works awaiting treatment. The company expect to make a shipment of a car of high-grade ore to the Philadelphia smelter at Pueblo some time this week. The property is improving rapidly. On Saturday a narrow streak was broken into in the stope that will assay up in the thousands.

GOLD EXPLORATION NOTES.

Many Leasers Together with the Company Making Things Lively.

Messrs. Pearson & Co., lessees of the Gloriana No. 2, belonging to the Cripple Creek Gold Exploration company, have just let a contract for 100 feet of shafting. When this contract is completed the shaft will have a depth of 225 feet.

The company has let a contract for 100 feet of shafting on the Nancy Hanks, on the Lawrence townsite. Considerable prospecting has been done lately, and a new vein uncovered which has already been sunk on to a depth of 25 feet. The vein is between four and six feet wide with good walls. The company is contemplating the erection of a plant of machinery on this property.

The May Bell tunnel, belonging to the same company, is being worked by lessees, who are now in 150 feet. The boys work on the south side of Squaw, and is following a good vein lying along a big basalt dyke. The tunnel is gaining depth rapidly. Assays from the vein matter running as high as $96 have been obtained.

The lessees on the Elkton No. 2, located south of the Santa Rita and Home Run, have also let a contract for an additional 100 feet of shaft work which will put the hole down 100 feet. Two shipments have been made from this property which returned $32 to the ton.

Transfer Books Moved.

The transfer books of the Pharmacist company have been removed to the office of the newly elected secretary of that company, Mr. J. W. Miller, room 2, Bank building. All stock will hereafter be transferred at that place.

Good Hope Tunnel.

The Jasper tunnel of the Good Hope company is making about one foot per day. The entire breast of the tunnel is well mineralized and some good assays are being taken from the rock. The tunnel starts in Pot gulch and will develop the Comet No. 1 lode, belonging to the company.

Lillie Nuggets.

The last shipment to Leadville from the Bartholomew lease, on the Lillie, which adjoins the Vindicator on Bull hill, returned $45 per ton. There are now between 30 and 40 tons at the mills at the camp for treatment. On Sunday assays were taken from the bottom of the shaft which is now 100 feet which returned the rich values of $55 per ton.

WEEKLY LETTER EXTRACTS.

The following is taken from the weekly letter of the Crosby-Ehrich Investment Co:

"One of the rumors of the week is that the balance of the stock of the Victor mine has been sold in Paris. The history of the Victor mine teaches several important lessons: First, that great territory, however advantageous, is not necessary for the making of a 'bonanza.' The Victor is a single claim. The second lesson is that in Cripple Creek it is not necessary to have a wide vein. The Victor is an exceedingly narrow vein, but it is also exceedingly rich; and the cost of handling is small in comparison with the net value of the ore mined. The third and most important lesson, perhaps is that our own Eastern people are too slow in realizing the value of our Cripple Creek properties.

"The Victor mine was offered for sale in New York city for $250,000 three years ago, but could not find a purchaser. A year and a half later 49 per cent. of it brought about $420,000 in Paris, and now the remaining 51 per cent. is reported as sold at a price of about $500,000, making the total price about $1,250,000.

"There are other properties in the Cripple Creek region which can now be purchased at very reasonable figures, and which will develop into properties of equal value; and we are inclined to think that this summer many Eastern capitalists will visit the camp and make purchases of promising claims for the purpose of thorough development. One of the stocks to which we wish to call special attention is that of the Elkton company. It is traded in very lightly, but we think it can be purchased at from 1.50 to 1.75. The purchaser would receive an immediate dividend of 50 per cent. of new stock which, investing now at 1.15, would make the stock cost him about 76 cents per share. This company will pay a regular dividend of 1 cent per share per month, and, as the capitalization is only a million shares and the ore reserves are unusually large and unusually rich, we are certain that this stock, in addition to dividends of about 6 per cent. on present purchasing prices, will advance to at least $1 per share, very soon. In fact, the ore chute which the Elkton company has developed is so extraordinary in the high grade of ore that it would not surprise us if the dividends were at an early date increased above the regular 1 cent per month, and this stock should advance considerably above the price of $1 per share.

"A rumor pervaded our stock exchanges that the control of the Anaconda property had been sold abroad at a large figure. The stock advanced from 75 to as high as 67½, but has since receded to 60. We can neither substantiate nor deny the rumor, but we are confident that some day the value of this enormous property will be realized and then the price of this stock will advance with leaps and bounds that will startle the market. If you are willing to buy and wait, you will reap a tremendous harvest some day by the purchase of Anaconda stock.

"We still advise the purchase of Isabella at present price, and we believe that any buyer of Union, Cripple Creek Consolidated, Work, Golden Fleece, Portland, Cripple Creek Exploration, Ida May, Hayden, Matoa, New Haven and Trachyte will make no mistake."

The following extracts are taken from the weekly letter of Messrs. J. W. Proudfit & Co:

"At a meeting of the board of directors held at Victor this morning, the Portland company decided to resume the payment of dividends, and one of 1 cent per share was ordered. This will be gratifying to holders of the stock, although it will in no wise be a surprise to them. It was early in January that a disaster in the Anna Lee, one of the Portland properties, caused the partial closing down of the properties, and so curtailed both output and earnings. With enough ore being mined, however, to warrant the continuance of the practice of paying the usual dividend of 1 cent per share per month, the management, in its conservatism, preferred to pass them for the time being with the result that none were paid during March or April. As a result of the dividend just announced the stock has made a sharp advance, and buying orders are numerous in consequence.

"To stockholders of Princess Gold Mining company of record May 15th a dividend of ½ cent per share will be paid the day following. In this way is the continuity of dividends sustained and the reputation of the mines established.

"In comparison with the speculative markets of the country, there is much reason to be satisfied with the condition of the mining share market at the close of the present week. It is certainly not so favorable one for the buyer as he has been accustomed to now for five weeks, but there is no gainsaying the fact that prices are far and away below their real values. Sight must not be lost of the fact that mining shares actually represent a holding. There is always room for doubt to some investors just what tobacco shares actually represent, but the holder of a block of mining shares is at no such loss. The fortunate holder of Isabella shares has an interest in a company capitalized for $2,250,000, at par, and is part owner in the Buena Vista, Lee, Smuggler, Cheyenne Nos. 1 and 2, in the Emma Nos. 1 and 2, the Billy, Tom Thumb, Snow Bird, Aspen, Jack Rabbits Nos. 1, 2, 3, 4, Peacock, Hopeful, Hope, Hope No. 2, Old Hickory, Bouncer, Valeria, Two J's, Hobo, 150 acres, all on Bull hill, besides the two Monchas, near Mount Pisgah. The holder of stock in part owner in the company, has 115 men working for him and 40 lessees operating on his property. His mines are producing only about 1000 tons of ore per month, but so cheaply is it mined and so rich is the ore that of the net profits no less than $22500 is paid out each month in the shape of dividends at the rate of 1 cent per share or rather less than 2 per cent. per month. Besides this, the Isabella shareholder's company has about $100,000 in the treasury and is constantly being added to. Thus the shareholder has a very positive idea of what his stock represents and none of his shares are liable to assessment. Mining shares represent an actual and direct ownership.

"The foregoing is an apt, and we believe a timely, illustration of the relation of a mining shareholder to the company in which he holds stock, but it goes further. It shows how completely absurd it is that shares in such a company as the Isabella should sell so low. It makes, as we have before pointed out, the entire mines worth rather more than half their capitalization, at which whole price they could not possibly be bought, and a 22 per cent. investment. The main work on the Isabella ground is now being pursued on one claim only, but a new set of machinery has just been put in position, and will materially increase the output.

"One week from to-day the Golden Fleece will pay its usual dividend. This company pays 3 cents per month per share, and as shares are selling at about $1.75 the investment is 51¾ per cent. per annum. These shares are very strong, and the mines being old established and so well developed that permanency is known and their values well founded. No wonder it is that Eastern investors are seeking these shares and holding them for the dividend checks the companies never fail to send out.

"In Mollie Gibson stock we can see nothing but bright prospects. It seems to be well founded that the strike made several weeks ago in this property was of immense value and the company is but waiting to overcome some minor preliminaries to commence heavy shipments. This property is of such immense value that it requires but a small increase in output to make a vast increase in the earnings of the mine. Shares which are now being bought are almost all of them being bought by Colorado investors who are familiar with the property and seem to realize the great prospective value of the shares."

In their last weekly letter Messrs. Shove, Aldrich & Co. say:

"The market opened this week with a distinct showing of strength, and a more general buying than has been seen for some time. It was met, however, by a tendency on the part of speculators to realize profits, and soon reacted. Prices closed higher, however, in many instances, than were the case last week, and it seems probable that with the recurrence of these strong periods, sellers will be more inclined to withdraw.

"Union gained gradually after the dividend was paid, a fact which further proves that personal conditions among stockholders govern prices at the present time, rather than the physical condition of the mine. A reported negotiation for the sale of the Anaconda properties, together with the Florence & Cripple Creek railroad, and the Florence cyanide mill, to an English syndicate, stimulated the price of Anaconda stock, but it promptly declined again. Work held steady with large transactions, while Portland gained in quotation. It is expected that the new hoisting plant of the Portland will be in operation by the latter part of next week.

"The Portland company on Friday declared a dividend of one cent per share, payable the 15th inst. This early resumption of dividends by the company is a pleasant surprise, as it was not expected before June or July. Although the dividend is small, the company considered it better to resume at this rate. It is probable that next month will see a larger dividend, and that before long the increased amount will be necessary to make up the promised 24 cents in dividends during 1896, will be declared.

"The Pharmacist company showed a net profit of about $500 as the result of last month's work, this being the first gain of the kind which has been made from the properties in a long time. Its effect upon the stock, however, was insignificant. Trading in the cheaper stocks was light with a few exceptions, and this reminds us again of the steadily increasing tendency among investors to confine their purchases to dividend-paying stocks, or those which are expected soon to yield dividends.

"The number of dividend-paying properties in the Cripple Creek district is steadily increasing. The Gold and Globe company has declared a dividend of $3 per thousand shares, and expects to maintain the same regularly, and probably increase it. The Princess company has declared a one-cent dividend, and the Elkton has practically announced the payment of a one-cent dividend on the 25th. These, with the other regular dividends, furnish a substantial basis of value to Cripple Creek shares."

Rumored Strike.

A report was in circulation yesterday that a rich strike had been made in the Mollie Gibson mine at Aspen. A well-known brokerage firm received a cipher dispatch late yesterday afternoon to the same effect. The sudden advance in Mollie Gibson stock yesterday is ascribed to this alleged strike. Mr. Percy Hagerman left for Aspen Sunday night and none of the other Gibson officials were in town yesterday, hence the story cannot be confirmed.

The old Summit mill at Gillett has been started up by J. L. Moffot and associates and is running through the dump of the Iron Clad and some old tailings left in the mill when it as closed down two years ago. The mill has been refitted with Hartzell tables that catch the rich concentrates after the pulp has passed over the amalgamated plates. Two batteries are now in operation; two more will be started early in the week and in a short time the full 40 stamps will be dropping. The managers expect to be able to treat extremely low grade ores at a good profit and there is no shortage in the visible supply.

A new district is being opened two miles east of Nipple mountain, south of Victor. I. B. Arnold, manager of the Quaker City company, has a force of men at work on a number of locations and is getting some good assays from a number of veins lying along phonolite dykes. Assays from near the surface range from pay figures into the thousands, and the estimate placed on the district by a well-known mining man, who recently visited it, is to the effect that the prospects for a permanent camp are most flattering.

The Fullerton Consumption Cure.

A special stockholders' meeting in lieu of the regular annual meeting of The Wheel of Fortune Gold Mining company, will be held at the company's office, 18 Pike's Peak avenue, Colorado Springs, Friday, May 29, 1896, at 10 o'clock, a. m., for the election of seven (7) directors, and for the consideration of the proposition to consolidate the Maggie Reeves and Wheel of Fortune companies and reducing the capitalization thereof.

As it very important that a majority of the stock should be represented, I ask as an especial favor, if you cannot be present, to forward enclosed proxy to me as early as convenient and oblige.

London set the pace for local operators this morning. The fear that the condemnation of the American citizens who were on the Competidor might lead to serious complications between the United States and Spain, weakened American securities in London and caused a feeling of hesitancy on the part of the speculators here. The bears of course made the most of the news and hammered the market vigorously in the early trading, but the trading was on a small scale and the movements in selling share had no special significance.

Considering the fact that over $2,000,000 gold was taken for shipment to Europe to-morrow and that the street is disappointed about the refusal of McKinley to declare himself in emphatic terms on the currency question, the decline in prices was comparatively slight.

During the afternoon on advices from Washington that the Spanish government at the request of the United States government, had decided to postpone action on the Competitor case, the whole list strengthened, and an advance of ½ to 2 per cent from the lowest figures of the morning was recorded. This led the upward movement, rising from 6½ to 6 mainly on purchases to cover short contracts. Sugar, Leather preferred and the ...

Weather Indications.

Washington, May 11.—For Colorado, partly cloudy weather, probably local showers during the evening or night; westerly winds.

The Joe Wright is all right.

Messrs. A. M. Baker and J. M. Ferriday have returned from a trip to Glenwood.

In the ball game at Gillett Sunday the Colorado Springs team won by a score of 20 to 15.

You can go to Denver to-day on any Rio Grande train for $3.50, good to return till May 16.

Mr. F. W. Howbert returned on Sunday from California, where he has been visiting his family.

The fire department was called to 1418 North Tejon street yesterday morning on account of a blazing chimney.

The Iron Springs hotel at Manitou opened for the season Sunday under the management of R. B. and J. E. Kelly.

Mr. J. Arthur Connell and wife leave this evening for the East, and will shortly sail for Europe. They will spend the summer abroad.

The New York Electric company, a new electrical concern, will establish themselves at 109 North Tejon about the 15th of this month.

Stated convocation Colorado Springs chapter, No. 6, R. A. M., this evening at 7:30. Visiting companions are cordially invited to attend.

A plat of the townsite of the town of Hanley was filed with the county clerk yesterday. It is in the Bare Hills, and there are 709 lots in the plat.

All members of Company H are ordered to appear at their new armory to-night at 7:45 sharp. There is business of importance to come before the company, by order of F. H. Dunnington, captain.

Two suits for divorce were filed in the County Court yesterday. S. W. Low asks for a separation from Elizabeth Low on the grounds of cruelty and desertion. Annie Kalb from E. L. Kalb, on the grounds of adultery.

Mr. J. D. Caldon, of Atlanta, Ga., an eminent mineralogist and mining engineer, who has had experience at Johannesburg, is a visitor in the city and will go to Cripple Creek to inspect the great camp.

The Joe Wright is all right.

Next Friday evening at the High School Auditorium occurs the girls' contest for the J. F. Humphrey medal. Reserved seats can be secured at Hext & Williams's on Wednesday. Admission will be ten cents.

Rev. W. Austin Pratt, of All Souls church, leaves to-day for Greeley, to attend the Unitarian conference. Mrs. Pratt leaves this evening for Detroit, Mich., and from there will go to Europe, where she will study music during the summer.

On Sunday last an interesting game of base ball between the plumbers' and blacksmiths' clubs took place south of town. The score was thirteen to twelve in favor of the plumbers. They are feeling a bit swell, and challenge any trades team in the city, the printers preferred. They will play at any time or place.

Next Thursday afternoon the Colorado Springs ball team will have the hardest game to play that it has yet had. A team of the colored boys from the Antlers and El Paso club will cross bats with them, and they say they are going to teach the professional fellows how to play ball.

Marriage licenses have been issued in the past two days as follows: Nathan L. Griese to Clara S. Brewster, both of Cripple Creek; William Leigh and Kathleen N. Neumeyer, both of Denver; to Thornton H. Thomas and Miss Emma S. Wilkson, both of this city; to David R. Huey of Cripple Creek and Alma Blizzard of St. Louis.

The Joe Wright is all right.

The committee which has been at work on the prize guessing contest at the Book Carnival has announced its decision. The first prize was won by Art Blake, who had 49 correct guesses on his card. The second prize goes to Della Gandy, who had 48. The first prize was a pen holder and the second a key ring. They are now at The Gazette office and the winners can have them by calling at the business office.

A suit for damages was filed in the District court yesterday entitled Henry H. Shuck vs. Walter Maud, et al. Plaintiff alleges that he was in the employ of the defendants in February last, when he was injured by falling. He was working on the Colorado City lode, which they had leased. He was attempting to put in place a piece of timber when the timbering at the 50-foot level gave way. He had his nose broken and jaw dislocated. He alleges that it was the fault of those who were operating the mine, and he asks for $15,000 damages.

Yesterday morning Officer Henry Cornell of the mounted police force met with quite a painful accident and had a close call for his life. He was driving a stray steer on Kiowa street to the pound, when by some accident his revolver fell from his pocket. The cartridge exploded and the ball entered his left leg and then went through his arm. He was able to get off the horse and get his gun and then ride to the city hall. Then he was taken home and his wounds attended to. It was found that no bones had been broken, but he will be laid up for some time. The ball was a 45 and made two big ugly wounds. The officer has the sympathy of his friends, who are many.

A Laughing Event.

The coming engagement of Ezra Kendall in the "Pair of Kids" at the Opera House on Friday evening promises to be the laughing event of the season. Everyone will be interested to see how Kendall manipulates that sticky fly paper and how he runs that mile in "2:01½" on the revolving treadmill. Having done it for ten successive years there is every reason to believe he has the fine points of fun "pat," so to speak. There is a restaurant scene in the "Kids" which is said to be one continuous string of funny burlesque, comical pantomime tricks and sleight of hand action. Kendall, in his character of the old "jay," of course runs the restaurant, and the way he does it must be seen to be appreciated.
